Boisterous Worship

William Dyrness in Themes of Old Testament Theology describes how the Israelites' worshiped: "Praise was often so exciting that worship could only be described as boisterous. There was dancing (Psalm 150:4), all kinds of instruments (Psalm 108:2), constant singing (Psalm 33:3), and even tumultuous shouting (Psalm 27:6). There was nothing dreary about Old Testament worship! In fact, one has the impression that in praising, men and women have their highest end."

Whether or not we express our worship as they did, we can have the same exuberant joy in our hearts. The most frequently used word for praise in the Bible is hallel, which we translate "hallelujah" or "praise." The word means "to laud, to boast, to celebrate, to rave." Hallel is used repeatedly in Psalm 150.

Dear Jesus, help us to be as zealous about praising You as the Psalmist indicates we should be.

Praise ye the Lord. Praise God in his sanctuary:
praise him in the firmament of his power.

Praise him for his mighty acts: praise him according to his excellent greatness.

Let every thing that hath breath praise the Lord.

Praise ye the Lord.

(Psalm 150:1, 2, 6)
